Agreement touching the Rendition of the Citie of York.

THe Generals of the Armies have treated as Generals in reference only to themselves and their Souldiers, and was not intended to intrench upon any Ordinance of Parliament, but all all such persons and estates as were subject to Sequestrations, might still be liable and subject thereto, notwithstanding any Generall words in the Articles.

And thus these Generals doe declare under their hands, and the Commissioners of the Treaty doe declare, That they did severall times during the Treaty expresse to the other commissioners, that they had no order to meddle with any Ordinance of Parliament, or to goe further then the bounds of the army,

Agreement touching the Liberties of the City of York.

The Generals of the Armies have treated as Generals in reference only to the Liberties their Soldiers, and was not intended to intrench upon any Ordinance of Parliament, but all such persons and officers were obliged to re-rations, might be liable and subject thereunto, notwithstanding any General warrant in the Armies.
And thus the Generals do not intend to infringe and the Commission of the Peace is not clear, that they do not intend to infringe the other commissions, that they had no order to make with any Ordinance of Parliament, or to go in the way of the same.
